

Jim Tosone

Lectures and Workshops

"Find your voice and inspire others to find theirs."

Jim is an expert in giving people the tools to move beyond their current level of success. His learning programs on career, collaboration, creativity and communication are distinctive and yield results.

Jim brings over twenty years of leading edge business experience to every event. His real-world expertise and approachable style is at the heart of his lectures and workshops.

Jim has shared his knowledge and insights on a range of topics through a book and through published articles in magazines and newspapers—including the New York Times.

Jim is a graduate of The Second City Training Center, the world-famous center for Improvisation. He has performed with the Improv group Demented But Mobile at Players Theatre, Music Theatre Works, and the Comedy Cellar in New York City.

YOUR NEXT CAREER

Are you so busy with your current career that you have neglected Your Next Career? This lecture will help you understand how to develop Your Next Career and why it's important to start now. Learn how laying the foundation for Your Next Career can help you in your current career and all aspects of your life.

IMPROV FOR CREATIVITY, COMMUNICATION & COLLABORATION

Improvisation is generally thought of as humorous entertainment. Yet the techniques of Improv can be used in the workplace to enhance collaboration, creativity, communication, and conflict resolution. This workshop will bring to life the core principles and techniques of Improv in a fun, high-energy, low-pressure session. Attendees will participate in a set of classic Improv games, such as: Dr. Know-It-All, Conducted Story and ABC. The workshop will also cover how Improv can be incorporated into your work and personal lives.

USING CREATIVE NON-FICTION TO MAKE COMPELLING PRESENTATIONS

Remember the last "couldn't-put-it-down" novel you read? Dramatic scenes, life-like characters, realistic dialog and rich detail grabbed you and held you to the very end. Your presentations can have that effect. This lecture will explain and give examples of the techniques of creative non-fiction, which can be readily adapted to bring color, drama and life to your presentations and speeches.

"Jim, you are the master. You have significant impact on individuals and their consciousness about their futures. Look forward to next year."

Darwin John, Program Director
SIM Regional Leadership Forum

"You were wonderful. You inspired many to think about next careers in a way they never had before. Your enthusiasm, openness, and humor all contributed to conveying the message... and your delivery skills are terrific!"

Madeline Weiss, President
Weiss Associates, Inc.

"The Improv Workshop at the Toastmasters' District 46 Fall Conference was outstanding. The presentation was professional and inspirational. With Jim's leadership, audience participation was enjoyed by everyone."

Don Kaufman, Founder
Valley Toastmasters

"I've been teaching for 35 years, but Jim's 'Creative Non-fiction Techniques to Make Compelling Presentations' gave me a fresh approach for presentation design."

Blake Ives
Director, IS Research Center
University of Houston

Jim is known for his versatility, making presentations for a wide range of audiences and venues. Conferences, professional societies, libraries and schools have sponsored and benefited from Jim's lectures and workshops.
